

Coollest Superpowers

By Jennifer Lin

I don't agree with the ranking because I think if the superheroes understand their powers and use them correctly, they can be stronger than the others. For example, people with super strength can't defeat people who have impenetrable bodies. People with invisibility power can't outsmart people with super-speed because they can fathom ideas or knowledge faster.

If I could choose to have one superpower, I would like to have the ability of super speed because I wouldn't be the last one in running competition. And I could write my homework in just 5 minutes. I could even be impervious to any kind of harm by running really fast.

The world would be different if superpowers were real. People might use that to do crimes and it was impossible for governments to control all the arcane powers. Just like all the superhero movies, especially the X-men, there're always people who are against people with superpower. Soon enough, the world would be in another big world war and lots of people would die. Having superpower can be more destructive than nuclear weapons.
